

believes he is dead. He could not tell me where I might possibly find him. Stumpy Gillin died about 7 or 8 years ago in an old shack in the rear of the saloon which he once owned. He has a brother John who lives some place in Newark. This is all the information Mr. Simpson was able to give me. He did say, however, that this place was a "hang-out" for many women and that Gillin did not live with his wife, but had another woman living at that place with him.

Respectfully submitted:
